

Welcome to your guide for the Millionaire's Trading Club (MTC) Trade Hub. This guide will walk you through all the current features of our new Social Trading Hub.

This Hub is a secure place where you'll be able to connect with other like-minded options traders so you can help one another. You'll also find all the education, links for the live training and coaching, recordings of all the sessions, and trade recommendations associated with Options Testing Lab (and soon other programs as well). Finally, this is also a place where we'll be testing new options tactics and sharing those tactics with you.

Let's get started on the walkthrough for the new MTC Hub. We'll begin on the right side of the dashboard starting with setting up your profile.

Setting Up Your Profile

Click your name in the upper right corner and a drop-down menu will appear. The first option is “Profile.” Hover over “Profile” and another menu will appear. From this menu you can View, Edit, Add a Profile Photo, or Add a Cover Photo.

We’ll start with “Edit”, click on “Edit” and from this screen you can update all aspects of your profile.

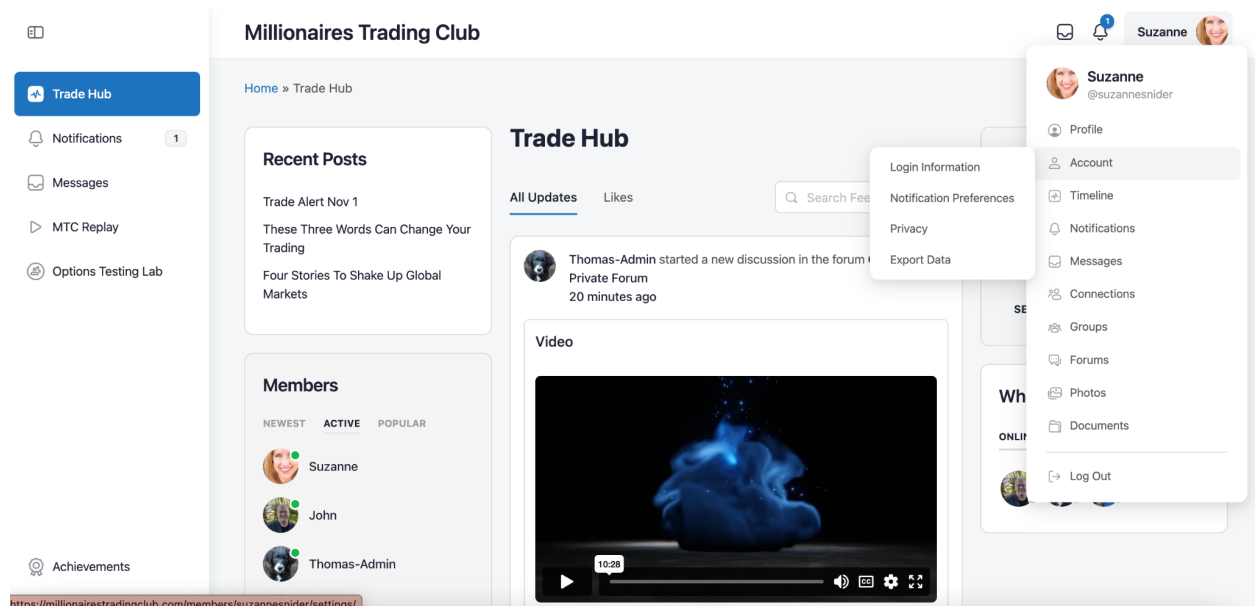

The screenshot shows the 'Edit Profile' interface for a user named Suzanne. The top navigation bar includes the 'Millionaires Trading Club' logo and a user profile icon. The main content area is titled 'Edit Profile' and features a sidebar with options: 'Edit' (selected), 'Profile Photo', and 'Cover Photo'. The main section is titled 'Edit "Details" Information' and has two tabs: 'Details' and 'Default Data'. Under the 'Details' tab, there are input fields for 'First Name (required)' (containing 'Suzanne') and 'Last Name (required)' (containing 'Snider'). Below the last name field, there is a 'Public' checkbox and a 'Change' link.

You’ll see a place to update your details: First Name, Last Name, and Nickname.

Then on the left, you’ll see where you can click to edit your Profile Photo and/or Cover Photo. None of these are required but we encourage you to personalize your profile and it will help others recognize you.

Now we’ll move on to the next item in the drop-down menu, your Account.

Reviewing Your Account

If you hover over “Account” in the right-side navigation, you’ll see a place where you can review and update your Login Information, review and update your Notification Preferences, review and edit your Privacy settings, and Export Data (but this is only applicable to admins).

We’ll start with your Login Information.

A screenshot of the 'Account Settings' page. The left sidebar shows navigation links: Login Information (selected), Notification Preferences, Privacy, Group Invites, and Export Data. The main content area is titled 'Login Information' and contains the following fields and options: 'Current Password (required to update email or change current password)' with a text input field; a link 'Lost your password?'; 'Account Email' with a text input field; a blue information icon with the text 'Leave password fields blank for no change'; and 'Add Your New Password' with a text input field. A 'View My Profile' link is in the top right corner.

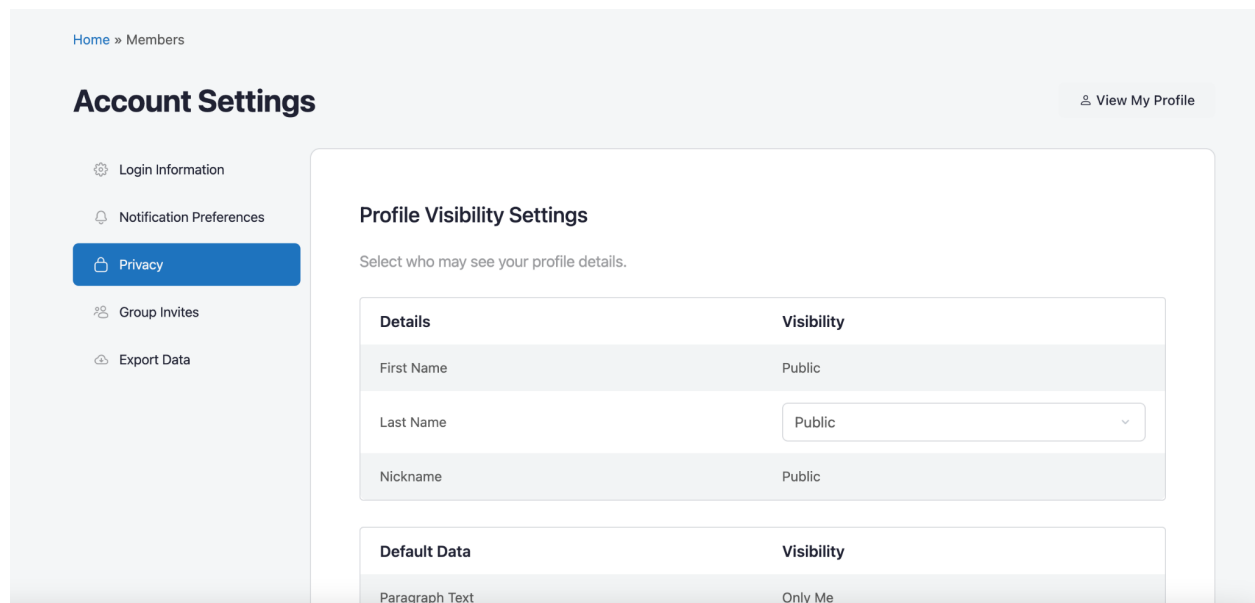

From the Login Information page you can review your account login information and reset your password if you wish.

Notifications

The Notification Preferences page will allow you to change any notifications. You can choose email or web for each category, or you can leave both unchecked and you won't get a notification, but you can review the information when you are logged into the Hub. Please take the time to customize the notifications settings to your liking.

Privacy

The Privacy Page will allow you to update your personal information and how visible you'd like that information to be.

Group Invites and Export Data are not applicable to those outside of administrators.

Your Timeline

The image displays two screenshots of the Millionaires Trading Club interface. The top screenshot shows the 'Trade Hub' page, which includes a sidebar with navigation options like 'Trade Hub', 'Notifications', 'Messages', 'MTC Replay', and 'Options Testing Lab'. The main content area features 'Recent Posts' and a 'Members' list. A video player is also visible. The bottom screenshot shows a user profile for 'Suzanne' (@suz), featuring a large background image of a candlestick chart and a profile picture. The profile includes tabs for 'Profile', 'Timeline', 'Connections', 'Groups', 'Photos', 'Forums', and 'Documents'. A URL is visible at the bottom of the first screenshot: <https://millionairestradingclub.com/members/suzannesnider/activity/>.

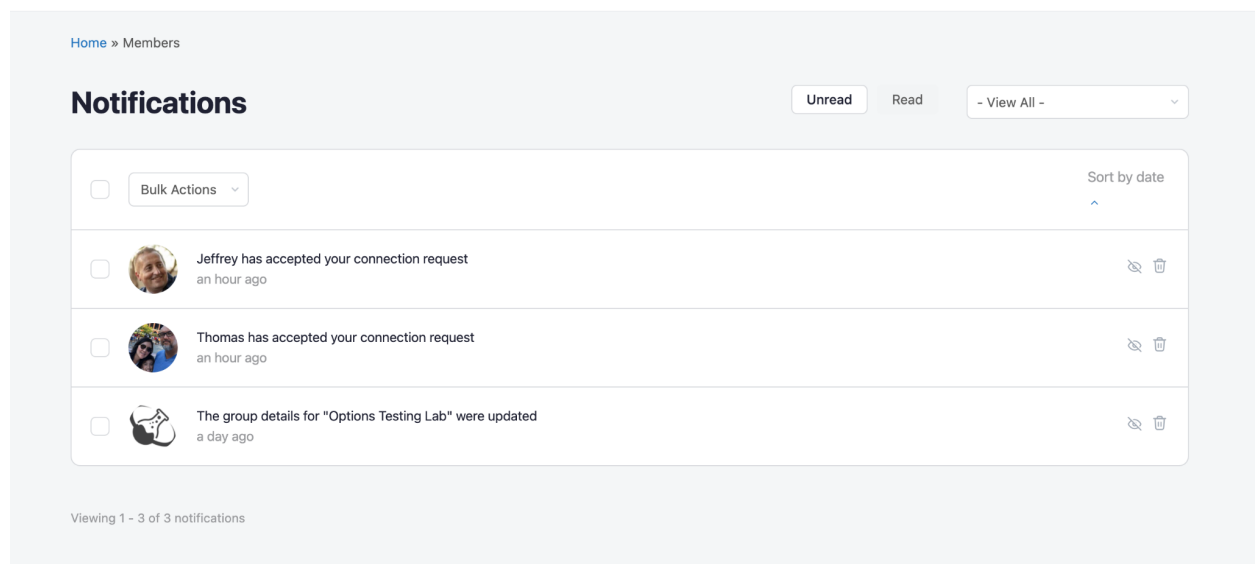

The Timeline view is where you can see your posts, and easily access your connections, groups, photos, forums, and documents. You are also able to create a post so that members you are connected to can see your communications.

Your Notifications

There are a few different ways to access your notifications, one way is from the upper right-side navigation bar that appears when you click your name.

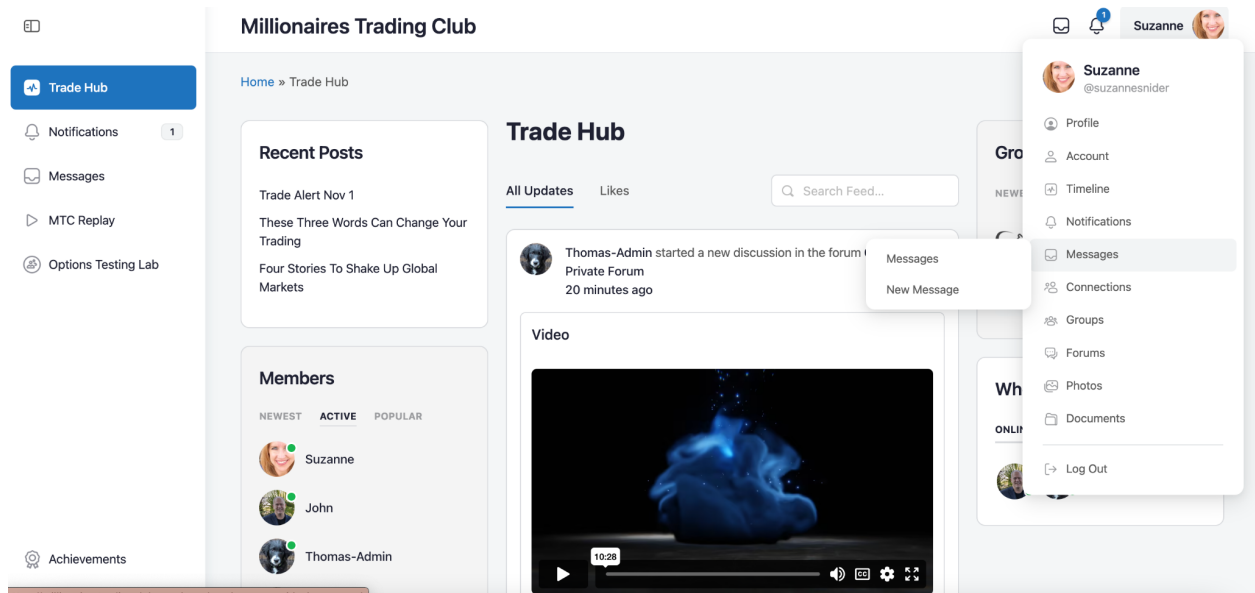

Depending on how you set-up your notifications preferences you will see an accumulation of notifications on the screen when you click either “Unread” or “Read”.

Your Messages

The same goes for Messages, there are a few different ways to access your messages, one way is from the upper right-side navigation bar that appears when you click your name.

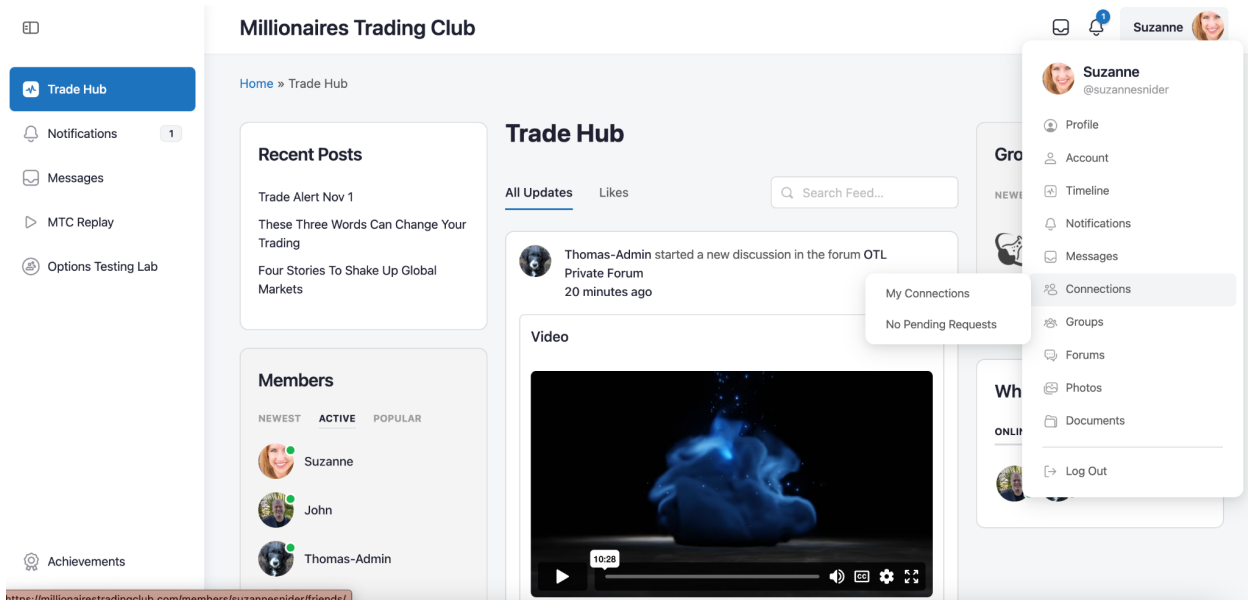

When you hover over messages, you'll see the sub-navigation. From here you can see all "Messages" or "New Messages"

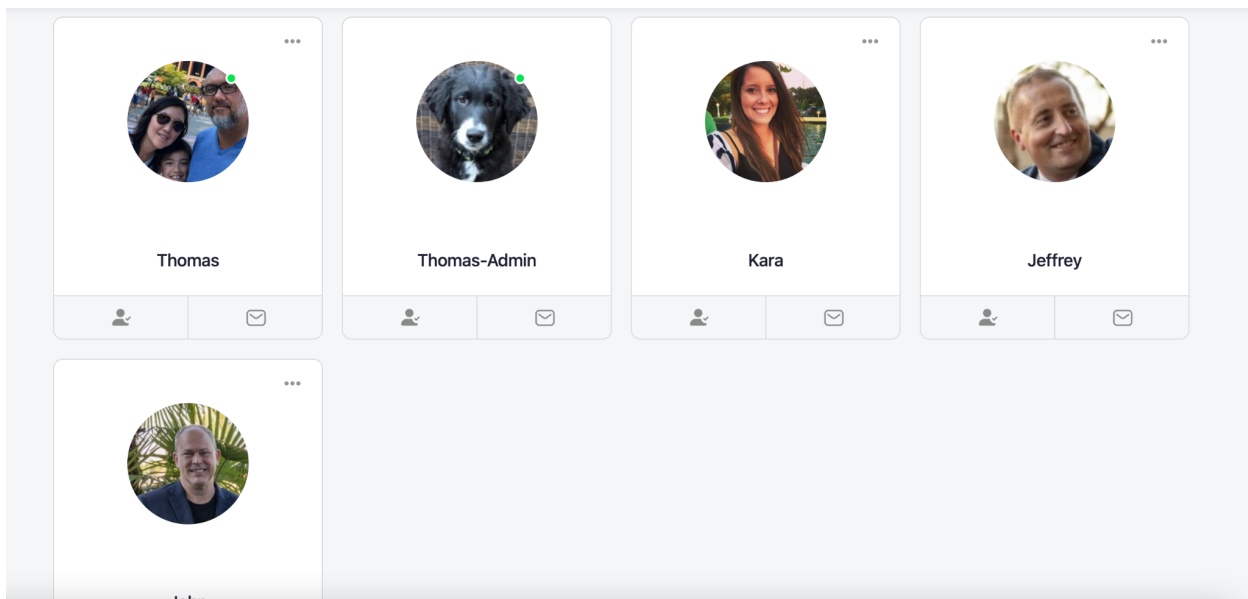

From the Messages page you can see all the messages and choose to type a new message from there when you type in the lower bottom box.

Your Connections

Your Connections is a place where you can see who you are connected to on the Hub, you can also view members who you may want to request to connect to, and you can see your “Pending Connection Requests”.

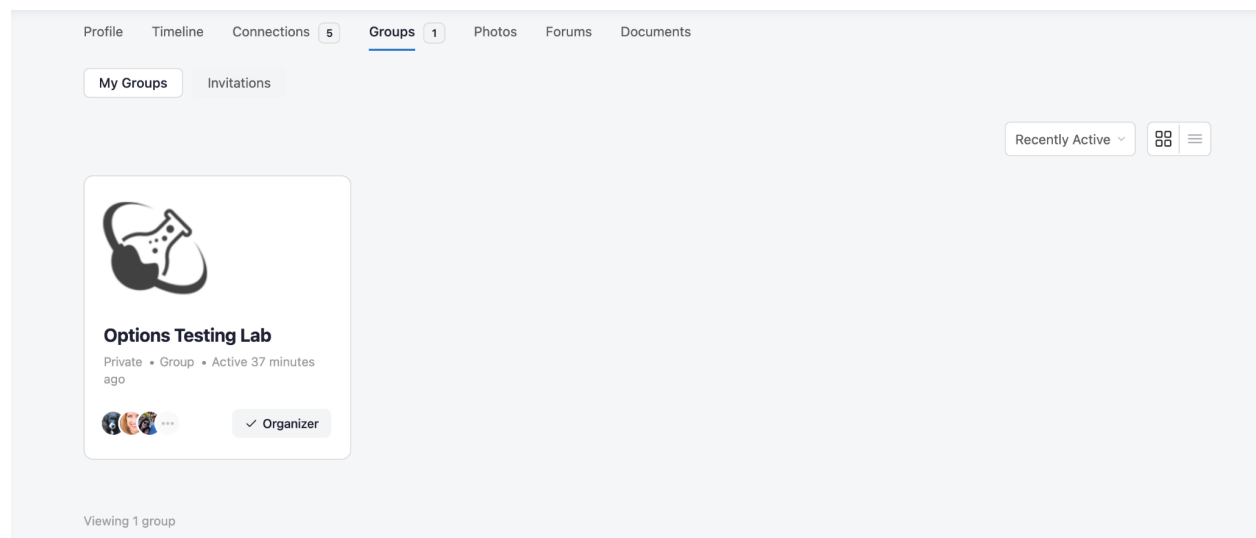

This is an example of the connections view within your timeline.

Your Groups

If you hover over the Groups on the right side of the menu a new menu will appear with “My Groups” and “Pending Invites”. From here you can see the groups you are involved with under “My Groups” and you can view any invitations you may have to join a group under “Pending Invites.”

Here's what the “My Groups” section looks like. For now we only have the Options Testing Lab Group, but more groups will be added in the future.

Your Forums

If you hover over the Forum word on the right side of the menu a new menu will appear with “My Discussions,” “My Replies,” “My Favorites” and “Subscriptions”. From this navigation you can access all Forums you are subscribed to. We are not utilizing this feature at the moment, but we may in the future.

Your Photos and Documents

The last two menu items, on the right side navigation bar, gives you a shortcut to accessing any photos or documents you may upload to the Hub.

And the last menu item listed is the place where you can Log Out of the Hub.

Right Side Icons

The upper right corner has two icons near where your name appears. From here you can find a shortcut to access your notifications and your messages. The bell icon is for notifications and the inbox icon to the left of the bell is for your messages.

Left Side Navigation

And now we will dive into the left-hand side navigation. On the left, highlighted in blue, is where you can always get back to the main dashboard of the Trade Hub.

Trade Hub

The Trade Hub dashboard (as you see in the image above) shows recent posts and all members of the Millionaire's Trading Club. This also allows you to share your thoughts and post a link, idea, or image to the newsfeed with other community members'. The dashboard will list any groups you are in, and show other members who are currently online that you are able to chat with in real-time.

Trade Hub Newsfeed

To post to your newsfeed simply find the middle of the dashboard where it says “Share what’s on your mind”. By clicking the white text box, this will create a pop-up box where you are able to write your post. Click the blue button “Post” and your content will be shared to the newsfeed. Keep in mind, you can choose if you want to share this publicly, to all members of Millionaire’s Trading Club, only your connections, to a specific group you are in, or shared privately (only with yourself).

Your Notifications

Below the “Trade Hub” menu item is “notifications”. The Notifications (as highlighted above in blue) “notifies” you of any activity on your account. This will include any new connection requests from other members, updates from groups, trade alerts, etc. You can also access your notifications at the top right corner where the bell is located.

Your Messages

Below the “notifications” menu item, you will find “messages” (highlighted in blue above). You can access your private messages from other members here. You’re also able to send messages from this area.

As you'll notice, under MTC Replay is a tab called "Options Testing Lab (OTL)". This is a private group for only those who are a member. Inside this area of the MTC Hub is an exclusive group who are able to speak & connect with other OTL members, create discussions, share ideas, photos, etc. This is also where you will find all trade alerts posted for Options Testing Lab.

Achievements

The final tab on the left-hand side navigation menu is called "achievements" and if you look closely, it is located on the lower left bottom of your screen. Consider these achievements "awards" or "milestones". The team at Traders Reserve will create fun competitions for members to win points and online "awards" in the future.

This guide is a working guide and we will update this as we add and update our new Social Trade Hub site for all Millionaire's Trading Club members.
